

Four "A Ford a Day" Winners Made Happy By the Delivery of Evening World Prizes

MISS E. D. LEWIS.

All Express Appreciation of Handsome Touring Cars When They're Turned Over to Them for "What Did You" Stories of Merit.

Old and young—readers and writers of The Evening World's "What Did You See to Day?" page—continue each day to win a Ford automobile as a prize for the day's best contribution.

Four Fords were delivered to-day to as many winners, and one of them is the youngest, so far, to win a special prize in the contest.

She is Dorothy Young, twelve years old, of No. 12 North High Street, Mount Vernon.

The others are:

Nicholas J. Bolger, who is fifty-seven years old, of No. 65 West 20th Street, Bayonne, N. J.

Allen Gilmor of No. 8746 119th Street, Richmond Hill, N. Y., and Miss Etta D. Lewis of Port Washington, L. I.

Miss Lewis and Mr. Gilmor are much, much younger than Mr. Bolger, and much, much older than Miss Young, who, despite her twelve summers, would never have a half-fare ticket questioned by even a Philadelphia street car conductor, who measures them with yardsticks.

Dorothy came with her mother, Mrs. Susan Young, to get possession of her car, and, although Dorothy was not vocal in her expression of delight, her dancing gray eyes and flushed face told more of the thrill inside her than any words could have done. She gazed with rapture at the bright, shining touring car won by her own efforts in a few minutes with a pen.

"Is that mine?" Dorothy asked in a voice hardly above a whisper. And when she was told it really was all her own she snuggled up against her mother in a way that made you feel like giving her a car every day just for the privilege of seeing how happy it made her.

"It'll be a long time before Dorothy can obtain a driver's license, but meanwhile the car will be driven either by her mother, her father, James S., or her brother, Senior."

"I just wish I could drive it," said Dorothy, and her mother patted her arm.

Mr. Bolger was awarded his Ford, but when he announced that he had been unable to work steadily for four years because of a sunstroke he suffered prior to that time and is unable to afford even a modest luxury like that, The Evening World helped him find a purchaser for the machine.

"This will be fine news for the old woman," said Mr. Bolger as the money was turned over to him. "I'm the pole had taken a firm hold in the gentleman's trousers and wouldn't let go. In the end a pen-knife was borrowed, the fishline was cut away and the hook remained in the trouser-leg. The young woman and her burden left us and the bus proceeded merrily toward Mineola.

This is Mr. Gilmor's story:

LOOKING FOR "BABY."

While I was taking photographs in front of the 118th Street Police Station at Richmond Hill (the pictures to be used on automobile traffic cards), I saw a big St. Bernard standing looking into the station-house through the glass doors. He was no longer a young dog but he had an air of wisdom. I saw several officers try to shoo him away. If they became impatient, the old fellow flattened out and whined. Presently I was approached by an old lady who acted as if she were deaf and dumb. She kept pointing to the dog, and then she would hold her hand about two or three feet from the ground. Finally, I stepped into the station and asked the matron if she knew anything about a lost baby. The matron did. The old lady was at my heels and the old dog at hers. In a minute a boy about two years old was in his nurse's arms. The kid insisted on walking and I saw them all going down the street together, the dog with one corner of the boy's dress in his mouth.

Following is the story written by Mr. Belger:

A THIEF IN THE NIGHT.

At 2 o'clock in the morning I was sound asleep and dreaming of robbers. All of a sudden I was wide awake. I heard somebody prowling about on the front porch, five steps up from the street. My windows always are wide open at the top, but they cannot be opened from the outside. * * * The head of the bed is at the windows. Hanging on the bedpost I keep a policeman's club. I reached for the club, stepped out of bed and just as I touched the floor saw a hand and forearm reaching over the top of the window. I saw a man's head and shoulders. A cap was pulled well down over his head. (My wife was snoring.) I leaped, meaning to bring the club down on the fellow's head with all my might, and tripped over the stool Mrs. B. places beside the bed every night with the alarm clock on it. Stood, clock and I tumbled all over the floor with a terrible noise. I heard the thud of my burglar as he dropped from the window and made off. My wife woke up complaining about the noise. I cursed the clock and I cursed the stool, but to-day I am glad it turned out as it did, for if the old locust had landed there would have been a dead body on our front porch.

And this is Dorothy's:

PEELING THE POTATOES IN PEACE.

While sitting on our front porch in North High Street, Mount Vernon, I was, to say the least, surprised to see one of the neighbors hurrying down the street, bareheaded and with a big pan of potatoes under one arm. He was saying things to himself as he rushed along. At the foot of the street he boarded one of the trolley cars of a line that runs three miles to Yonkers. * * * About one hour later I witnessed the gentleman's return. He still carried the big pan, but the potatoes were nicely peeled. * * * They really are a devoted couple, but they do have "words" once in a while.
